Summer School 2021

Changing Legal Orders between the EU and Russia: Constitutional Processes in the Eastern Partnership

In August 2021 the Centre for Interdisciplinary Studies will hold its inaugural Summer School on 'Constitutional Processes in the Eastern Partnership'. The Summer School aims to bring together students and researchers from Eastern Partnership and EU countries to examine the processes of constitutional transformation in the post-Soviet space, with a particular focus on Armenia, Georgia, Moldova and Ukraine. It shall be interdisciplinary, combining the approaches of Constitutional Law and Legal Theory, Political Science, and Legal Anthropology. The Summer School consists of four parts:

- Part I: constitutional theory, design, culture identity and change.
- Part II: constitutional reforms in the EaP and CEE regions - focus on Armenia.
- Part III: the Rule of Law & Good Governance and their role in constitutional transformation. Focus on the judiciary & anti-corruption reforms.
- Part IV: the influences of external actors on constitutional transformation

The Summer School will consist of interactive, discussion-based seminars, alongside meetings with local stakeholders involved in the constitutional reform process in Armenia as well as visits to Armenian government and judicial institutions. Participants will also be expected to conduct a group research project, where they will produce an analysis of the most recent constitutional developments in Armenia or another EaP country. The programme also includes excursions and evening activities.
